An evening of films by Heather
M.
O'Brien

gaze

This series of films by Heather M. O'Brien aims to offer a nuanced dialogue on issues relating to gender, spirituality, grief, exile, and belonging. Local poetics and politics within the context of Illinois are further unpacked vis-à-vis O'Brien's inclusion of a recent film by Cody Tracy, an MFA candidate in Southern Illinois University's School of Media Arts (SOMA), where O'Brien is an Assistant Professor of Cinema. Conversation moderated by artist and Associate Professor in SOMA, Sarah Lewison.
